

The Fishin Shack Weekly Reports

WEEK OF June 25, 2007

Well it's a bass world out here in Moriches and those using clam bait are finding all you want action on the flood tide in the inlet. Most of the bass are schoolies but there are enough keepers around to keep things interesting. Those fortunate enough to find big bunker and live line them are finding some impressive fish in the 20pound class. Once again the flood tide is the key.

Fluke on the other hand started off real well at the beginning of the week, and then collapsed by the weekend. The West Cut has been giving way to some real impressive fluke. Chet weighed a 10 and 11- pounder taken from the West Cut this week along with numerous 6 pound fish.

Sea bass are on the reef along with some real fat porgies. Blackfish are there also but must be returned until October 1st.
